Day 1 | Jesus Seeks Us Out

All of us fall short of God's standards, but Jesus seeks us out anyway. When we look at Jesus' life on earth, we see that he entered into relationships with people who were rejected by others, and some of those people even became his disciples.

ENGAGE:

Reflect on Romans 2:4. Do you embody the kindness of Jesus to others?

Is there someone in your life who you can show Jesus' love and kindness to this week?

Day 2 | What Is Sin?

There is a clear distinction between (on the one hand) being attracted to the same sex and (on the other hand) lusting after or having sex with them. The Bible is clear that temptation is not a sin; Jesus himself experienced temptation. But acting on lust or engaging in sexual behavior outside of marriage is sin.

ENGAGE:

How might the distinction between temptation and lust challenge or reinforce your view of same-sex attraction?

Day 3 | The Holy Spirit Is Stronger Than Our Temptations

Though temptations (whether sexual or otherwise) may be a constant part of our lives, the Holy Spirit is stronger than our temptations. We have the choice to lean into God's grace and guidance. Only through Jesus can we receive forgiveness.

ENGAGE:

Do you believe that the Holy Spirit is stronger than your temptations? Why or why not?

Ask the Lord this week to reveal his grace to you and to guide you through your temptations.
